Rebels Cut Gas Line To Buenos Aires; Warships Ready

Peron Claims Reconquest Of Cordoba

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Sept. 18 (AP)—Argentine rebels cut Buenos Aires' gas supply line today. Three large warships steamed up the River Plate amid reiterated insurgent threats to bombard the capital city.

On the other side, President Juan D. Peron's forces claimed for the second time the reconquest of Cordoba, a strategic city of 350,000 in north central Argentina. But rebel broadcasts disputed the claim.

Sabotage
The gas pipeline sabotage—the first rebel strike at Buenos Aires—was reported by the government radio. It said the line had been cut at Bahia Blanca, a major port 325 miles southwest of the capital. The government appealed for housewives to use gas only for essential cooking.

Gas is important for industrial as well as household use in coal-shoat Argentina. The pipeline to the capital runs from oil fields in Comodoro Rivadavia territory in the southern part of the country. The mission of the three warships in the River Plate (Rio de la Plata) was shrouded in mystery. Presumably a part of Argentina's ocean-going navy, they were sighted at 12:30 p.m. some 15 miles offshore from this Uruguayan capital and 120 miles east of Buenos Aires.

Warships Wait
A rebel fleet of river warships has been waiting in the wide estuary of the Plate, reportedly for a rendezvous with heavier-gunned ships. The government ridiculed the rebel threats of a bombardment, but declared in a communique that the capital should be declared an open city. The rebel-held Puerto Belgrano radio, however, said this could not be accepted because the city is defended by troops and artillery.

A broadcast from the rebel fleet said Buenos Aires had not been shelled yet because of weather conditions. Reports from the Argentine capital said the waning winter skies were overcast. The fleet's radio said Buenos Aires' three million people would be warned when the bombardment is scheduled to begin so they can take cover. It said the shells would be aimed at military objectives.

In reporting the reconquest of Cordoba, the government radio said "all focal points of resistance have been eliminated." Explaining why the battle had not ended Saturday night, as previously announced, the broadcast said the loyalist forces took their time because "We did not want to aggravate the suffering of the civilian population."

Rebel Claims
Rebel forces insisted that insurgent forces still held the city. The Puerto Belgrano radio said it had intercepted a message from the loyalist forces to Peron's supreme commander, Army Minister Gen. Franklin Lucero, asking for reinforcements and declaring "it is unthinkable to approach Cordoba."

Commission Recommends Consultants

EAST STROUDSBURG Planning Commission has recommended engaging consultants for three borough betterment projects. The preliminary plans and specifications will be paid for by a Federal appropriation of almost $30,000 for planning purposes.

J. H. Stoner, borough flood rehabilitation coordinator, said the commission will recommend to Council that Albright & Freh, Philadelphia, be awarded the job of preparing a sewage study.

Stoner added that a representative of the firm is expected to confer tomorrow with the planning commission relative to the project.

Improved Water
Buck, Seifert & Yost, New York City, has been recommended for the job of drawing plans for an improved water filtration plant and an additional watershed.

Stoner said he will contact the New York firm early this week to send a representative here to confer on the project.

Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess will work on immediate street reconstruction and improvement plans, and J. Cal Callahan of Morris-Knowles Co., Philadelphia, has been recommended to handle the long-range program tying in with the immediate street improvement program.

Republicans Oppose Tax On Federal Income Tax Rates

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18 (AP)—Sen. Edward J. Kessler (R-Lancaster) today expressed opposition to a tentative Democratic proposal for a tax on federal income tax returns. "I think most Senate Republicans are against the idea," he told a newsman.

Speaker H. G. Andrews (D-Cambria) broached the idea last week as one that could solve the commonwealth's tax problems if adopted by the legislature.

Andrews conceded that this type of levy may be unconstitutional but said it should be sent to the State Supreme Court for a try.

But the speaker said he won't offer the measure until after Republican and Democratic legislative leaders meet with Leader tomorrow for another attempt at a compromise to the state's tax dilemma.

Under his plan, the actual tax a Pennsylvanian would pay on his federal income tax would be subject to a state tax of five per cent.

Kessler, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, expressed his opposition to all forms of income taxes and renewed his support of an income levy as the solution, to the state's revenue needs.

Conferees will meet tomorrow to decide whether or not they should accept a report from the Pennsylvania Economy League on the state's actual budget needs.

Leader suggested that the league present its figure at the session but Kessler said Republicans won't be bound by them.

Regardless of the tax situation the week could easily turn out to be one of the busiest of the eighth month session. The House calendar for tomorrow, 40 pages long, lists half a dozen bills introduced on behalf of the Lader administration.

Two of the measures call for registration and regulation of activities of capitol hill lobbyists and for revisions of the state public utility law. The latter would require the Public Utility Commission to schedule public hearings in all utility rate increase cases and follows through on part of a Leader campaign pledge.

Another Leader campaign promise is reflected in a proposal that would require the state to make public the names of all concerns receiving corporation tax refunds or credits totaling more than $5,000.

The administration is behind the machinery tax bills which would fix a Jan. 1 deadline for communities to begin such taxation.

Girl Killed
ERIE, Pa., Sept. 18 (AP)—A 15-year-old girl was killed and her 46-year-old companion badly hurt today when they tumbled down the side of a 200 foot cliff above Elk Creek about 18 miles west of here. The victim was Ruby Shortz, a sixth grade pupil at Union City.

Quick Tests Of Strength Set For U.N.

By A. I. Goldberg
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 18 (AP)—U. N. diplomats began massing here today for Tuesday's opening session of the 16th U. N. General Assembly. Quick tests of U. S.-Soviet strength in between the Geneva Big Four meetings were in the works.

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov arrived from Moscow to attend his first General Assembly working session since 1946, making one of his rare plane flights to get here in time for the meeting.

Red China Issue
His arrival was expected to sharpen the clash over Red China's demand for a seat in the U. N., a fight he is expected to lose; over Communist Poland's contest for a Security Council seat against the U. S.-supported Philippines, where U. S. strength may be in danger; and over rival disarmament plans.

Molotov comes fresh from Moscow, where yesterday the Soviet Union promised to give back the Porkkala naval base to Finland. It was a move interpreted as strengthening Soviet demands that the United States also give up its bases in foreign lands.

U. N. diplomats expect Molotov to stress the new Soviet position on bases as a counter to the announced U. S. demand for unanimous Assembly approval of President Eisenhower's proposals to exchange aerial reconnaissance and defense blueprints to avert surprise attacks.

Molotov also was expected to give the first hard indication in his policy speech next week on how the Russians will vote on that plan. His deputy here, Arkady A. Sobolev, has been asking questions about it in the disarmament subcommittee which resumes sessions tomorrow afternoon.

May Accept
Harold E. Stassen, President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser, told the President at Denver last week he was sure the Russians would accept the plan.

Disarmament is expected to be the biggest single topic in the Assembly but not until the Oct. 27 meeting of the Big Four foreign ministers at Geneva. Until that time delegates are expected to go along with the "Geneva spirit" which followed the summit meetings in July and the "San Francisco spirit" of June when the U. N. held its 10th anniversary commemorative sessions.

Molotov and Dulles are expected to meet early in the session. Dulles is coming here Tuesday and will lead off in the policy debates which may get under way Wednesday afternoon.

Dulles already has planned serious conferences with his British and French opposite numbers here to prepare for the Geneva sessions with Molotov.

Meet Tuesday
The Assembly will meet at 3 p.m. Tuesday under the gavel of Dr. J. M. A. H. Luns, Dutch foreign minister heading the Netherlands delegation. He will substitute for last year's President Elco N. Van Kleffens, Dutch ambassador to Portugal.

Chile's Jose Maza is slated to be elected president at the opening session. The Assembly will then recess to Wednesday morning when seven committee chairmen will be elected, along with Assembly vice presidents, and an agenda adopted.

Abandon Bases
"There can be no doubt that the abolition by other powers of military bases on foreign territory would be an important contribution to the further relaxation of international tension and would help to create the necessary conditions for ending the arms drive."

Besides having a tremendous effect on the Finns, the return of Porkkala is expected to catch many eyes in Norway and Denmark, both members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. Diplomatic informants said the Russians undoubtedly figured these countries would note what Finland got by being friendly and wonder whether they shouldn't try a little of the same. That could have the effect of weakening the northern end of the NATO line.

To Sign Pact
Finnish sources said they expect to sign an agreement tomorrow extending the 1948 friendship pact with the Soviet Union, which is slated to expire in 1958. They said they did not know how long the extension would be, but were agreeable to any length.

Soviet-Finnish and Soviet-East German negotiations were in recess today, but the East German talks are expected to make news tomorrow.

The swift sequence of diplomatic events here had diplomats and Western reporters reeling as they worked around the clock trying to keep up. Most of them figured they had it wrapped up for the week-end after last night's fantastic Kremlin party. But then came the 6 a.m. announcement of amnesty for Soviet citizens who collaborated with the Germans during the war.

Races To Death
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18 (AP)—An auto race on McKnight road in the outskirts of Pittsburgh ended in death early today for Ronald S. Kirt, 18, police said.

Heads Society
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Medical Society in a special election today named Dr. Robert L. Schaeffer president. He is chief of staff at the Allegheny General Hospital.

Army To Erect One Temporary Dikey; State Will Receive Reports Tomorrow

ARMY Engineers have agreed to erect temporary diking at one of three locations considered critical by local leaders.

J. H. Stoner, East Stroudsburg flood rehabilitation coordinator, made the announcement after the Army Engineers surveyed the areas, accompanied by Borough Engineer Edward C. Hess, East Stroudsburg Councilman Roy Lloyd and Stoner himself.

Stoner said the Army officials indicated they may begin today on the job of erecting temporary diking in the rear of the George N. Kemp American Legion Home. Local authorities had also sought at least temporary flood protection along Broadheads Creek opposite Park St., and north of Sambow Creek.

State Inspection
Meanwhile, the borough engineer and East Stroudsburg Streets Superintendent Henry Lesoine made a tour of these critical areas Saturday morning with Richard Hand of the State Department of Forests and Waters.

Before making the tour, Stoner impressed upon Hand the seriousness of the situation and called to his attention the concern of Mayor Jesse Flory and the Council for the safety of residents of these areas.

After making the survey and flood protection cost study, Hand said he would send his report to Harrisburg, possibly by tomorrow. He noted that the State is about to start a complete survey of the entire area in relation to flood control.

Cloudbursts From Hilda Hit Mexico

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Sept. 18 (AP)—Hurricane Hilda struck a large island off the Mexican coast tonight below Tampico, Mexico, and deluged that flood-stricken city with new cloudbursts. The fringe of the storm sent high tides and ground swells roaring over beach roads as far north as Corpus Christi, Tex.

Hilda, packing winds of about 115 m.p.h., struck Isla de Lobos midway between Tampico and Tuxpan at 6:30 p.m., the Mexican Weather Bureau reported.

The area is sparsely populated and little damage is expected from the winds.

Heavy Rains
However, the hurricane triggered torrential rains which sent panic-stricken residents of Tampico to high ground or the taller buildings. The Panuco River already was at flood stage from tropical storm Gladys' rains of two weeks ago and the city was packed with refugees from outlying sections.

Officials said today's rains had raised the river level another 5 feet and was expected to go another 3 feet or so higher tonight and tomorrow.

Schools and public buildings containing thousands of Gladys refugees were jammed by new evacuees and citizens seeking safety.

The lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas took extraordinary precautions against downpours expected during the night and tomorrow.

At Raymondville, where 600 people still were drying out their homes and stores from floods caused by Gladys, sandbags were handed out again to protect business houses. Mayor Mary Frost told the Associated Press that "If we have rain of any consequence, we will be in a bad way."

Pocono Honeymoon

MILTON, Mass., Sept. 18 (AP)—Thomas C. Mannix, Beaver Falls, Pa., yesterday was married to Miss Jean M. McGonigle, Milton, secretary to U. S. Sen. Kennedy (D-Mass.). The couple was married at a mass in St. Agatha's Catholic Church. They will live in Beaver Falls after a Pocono Mountains wedding trip.

Red Cross Moves

RED CROSS registration center for aid moves today from the former Endicott-Johnson shoe store building to the former Montgomery Ward Co. Store headquarters, Dan Bachman, National Red Cross representative said last night.

Three Priests Freed; Tell Of Poor Food, Questioning

HONG KONG, Sept. 18 (AP)—Three U. S. Roman Catholic priests were freed by Red China today and told of poor food and long questioning during more than two years of house arrest behind the Bamboo Curtain.

The three, pale and underweight, arrived on the train from Red Canton, the same route over which three other Americans have traveled to freedom in the past three days. They are among 10 Americans promised quick release by the Reds at the ambassadorial talks at Geneva.

The three are the Rev. Frederick A. Gordon, Somerset, Ohio; the Rev. Joseph E. Hyde of Lowell, Mass.; and the Rev. James G. Joyce, Clinton, Mass. All were in good spirits and laughed and joked. "There was no physical torture," said Father Gordon. "We were given Chinese and Russian prayer books."

With them came the Rev. Luis Remigio Bolumbaru, a Spanish priest, who reported there were mass arrests of church workers in Shanghai several weeks ago. He indicated new attacks on religion may be under way.

The three American priests were held at the southeast China river port of Foochow, one of the Red buildup areas which threaten the Nationalist offshore Matsu Islands.

Father Gordon was accused of shielding counter-revolutionaries, Father Hyde of spreading propaganda and Father Joyce of collecting information on airfields.

Father Gordon told newsmen he saw no military activity as he was brought out and that during his long questioning he told his captors, "I had no information on Foochow airfield or any other airfield."

The Communists have been reported enlarging the Foochow field for jet planes for attacks on the Matsu and Nationalist Formosa.

The three were supposed to stay in their rooms, 10 feet square, but were allowed in the garden in the last two months provided they did not talk to one another. The rooms were the id servant quarters in the church compound.

"Our diet during the early part of house arrest was not up to normal," Father Gordon said. "We would get whatever vegetables there were in the market. We had eggs and bread and rice if we wanted it."

He said food improved in recent months and they got Red Cross parcels the last two months of captivity.

Father Gordon said he had lost 10 to 15 pounds and Father Joyce 30 pounds. Friends said Father Hyde appeared to have lost 50 pounds. Father Gordon is 57, Father Hyde 47 and Father Joyce 56.

Father Gordon said they were questioned intermittently for long intervals.

Seek Slayer

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18 (AP)—Police today are trying to track down the slayer of a Negro woman found dying of stab wounds in the Hazelwood section yesterday. She was identified through fingerprints as Gladys Marie Nowlin, 35.

However, hurricane force winds are expected in that area shortly after midnight tonight.

Packs Threat With Chance Of Moving Out

HATTERAS, N. C., Sept. 18 (AP)—Hurricane Ione's 125-mile-an-hour winds picked up a little forward speed late today on a mad whirl toward North Carolina coast. The year's ninth and worst tropical storm still packed a threat to the who East Coast northward. Three lives already had been lost in the ocean along New Jersey's Atlantic Coast.

Warnings Up
Red and black hurricane warning flags were up from the Virginia Capes to Morehead City, N. C. Ione's eye was expected to pass near Cape Hatteras late tonight. Some North Carolina beaches were being evacuated.

There was a possibility that the hurricane might move back over water after hitting Cape Hatteras, sparing the Eastern states. Hurricane forecasters at Miami said Ione's projected path for the next 24 hours would keep her "pretty much over water." Ione was making a slow turn toward the north and was expected to continue the turn until she was moving north or northeast. Forecasters said this expected path, if followed, raised the possibility that Ione would move back over water after hitting Cape Hatteras.

Ione had winds estimated at 125 m.p.h. over a small area near her center. Hurricane winds—at least 75 m.p.h.—extended out 75 miles in the western half and 100 miles in the eastern half. Gale winds extended outward 275 miles to the north and east and 160 miles to the south and west.

Moves North
Ione was expected to move toward the north at 14 to 18 mph. during the next 12 hours, with a tendency toward movement in a northern or north-northeastern direction in the following 12 hours.

Winds also increased steadily north of Wilmington to the Virginia Capes. They were expected to reach hurricane force in the area of hurricane display shortly after midnight.

Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster in the Miami Weather Bureau, said, "Ione apparently will start to move inland over the extreme eastern edge of North Carolina, and the center will then pass west of Norfolk on a over the Chesapeake Bay area during the morning hours tomorrow."

Same Path
Ione appeared headed for the same general path as last month's two killer hurricanes—Connie and Diane.

Connie sidestepped the northern South Carolina and North Carolina vacation coastline Aug. 12, then moved northward causing torrential rains in New York and Pennsylvania and killing 43 persons.

Diane moved inland Aug. 17 at Wilmington, N. C., and rapidly demolished in force. But her rain-laden winds dumped their load on Pennsylvania, New York and New England, causing floods which brought death to more than 200 persons and uncounted physical damage to the region.

Meantime, Hurricane Hilda continued to gain force and her winds were estimated at 115 miles per hour near the center. Her eye was expected to hit land on the Mexican coast near Tampico about noon tomorrow. Hilda took 22 lives as she crossed the eastern tip of Cuba last Wednesday.

However, hurricane force winds are expected in that area shortly after midnight tonight.

U. S. Expects Atomic Agency Within U. N.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—The United States expects that an international atomic energy agency, linked to the United Nations, will be set up soon and hopes that Russia will support it.

This word came today from Asst. Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox, addressing the American Assn. for the United Nations. He said that a statute providing for establishment of the agency has been drafted by Great Britain, the United States, France, Canada, South Africa, Portugal, Australia and Belgium. These countries all have atomic energy establishments or produce the raw materials for atomic fuels.

Service Resumed

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (AP)—Passenger service between Hoboken, N. J., and Buffalo, N. Y., disrupted by the August flood, has been resumed by the Lackawanna Railroad. The line said the trains resumed operation "way ahead of our earlier expectations."

Contour Plowing Winner Named

WABASH, Ind., Sept. 18 (P. A. Minnesota farmer, using his own plow and a borrowed tractor, won the national contour plowing contest today in competition with 11 other plowmen.

Eugene Holmes, 36, of Waldorf, Minn., the winner, had to wait a year to compete because his state contest, which he won last year, was held too late to enter the national event. The 1955 Minnesota contest was held today.

Although Chicago housewives show a marked preference for light colored yolks in their eggs, those in surrounding towns are apt to prefer dark yolks.

Clayton M. Hoff

Watershed Consultant To Speak

CLAYTON M. HOFF, executive vice president of the Brandywine Valley Association, will be the featured speaker at the Chamber's Watershed Conference at noon Wednesday, Mr. Hoff holds a master's degree from Case Institute of Technology, Cleveland, Ohio.

As a nationally respected authority on watershed development he serves as consultant to the Connecticut River Watershed Council; Upper Chesapeake Watershed Association and the Susquehanna River Control Council.

Having been featured in Saturday Evening Post and Country Gentleman for his outstanding work in conservation practices, Hoff is at ease explaining the fundamentals of the program, a chamber spokesman said. He also can tackle the details and technicalities as evidenced by his being director and past president of the American Watershed Council in Washington. Mr. Hoff is presently serving as chairman of the Delaware Commission on Interstate Cooperation.

May Form Council

Mr. Hoff will use an illustrated presentation as a kick-off for the program which will be followed by a question and answer session and aim toward definite establishment of a Watershed Council for the tri-county area of Monroe, Wayne and Pike.

Wednesday's meeting at the Penn-Strood Hotel will be one of a series of 18 being held throughout the state on water resources management.

Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, state secretary of forests and waters, said the meetings are designed to initiate interest among the general public and civic organizations in a water resources program.

He contends that most citizens regard "the tremendous importance and need for watershed improvement" with apathy.

The assembly's agenda up to now has no really new issues which would warrant such special attention unless Molotov felt the improved international atmosphere had created a situation which made his presence desirable.

The Western leaders have indicated they have no new questions to raise, although they hope there may be progress on some old ones such as the admission of new members and disarmament.

Some leaders outside the big power delegation—U. N. These leaders advise caution against too much optimism on the settlement of cold war problems at this stage.

Walter Eschenbach Retires School Bus Driver Job After 29 Years Service

WALTER ESCHENBACH, of East Stroudsburg RD1, veteran bus driver for Smithfield Township has ended his services to that township after 29 continuous years.

Due to the reorganization of bus routes in the recently formed East Stroudsburg Area Jointure, Eschenbach's route was combined with another from an adjoining township.

Started in '26

Walter's bus driving career started in 1926. For two years he transported children from the Mt. Nebo section to the one room school on Franklin Hill.

In 1928 for another two years he drove to Shawnee School and in 1930 to the then newly built Smithfield Consolidated School.

The means of conveyance for his route has always been by pleasure car. However, in one instance, during the winter of 1929-30, because of heavy snows, a wagon and horses were used to take the children to Shawnee.

No Accidents

Eschenbach has maintained a no-accident safety record for all 29 years and only upon several occasions was a substitute driver required.

Mr. Eschenbach and his wife own and operate Sunset Hill Resort on Mt. Nebo which has been their home for the past 25 years. They have three daughters, Mrs. Lawrence Butz, Bushkill; Mrs. Lorne Bachelder and Miss May Eschenbach, at home.

Lehigh Band, Glee Club Train Here

LEHIGH University's marching band of 96 undergraduates and 60 members of the glee club opened a training camp today at Pocono Crest, Pocono Pines, Pa.

Rehearsals at the camp will be held three times daily through Sept. 20. That evening, the combined musical organizations will present a pre-view concert in the auditorium of West Pittston high school.

While in training camp to be conducted by William H. Schenck, band director; and Robert Cutler, university organist and glee club director, the Lehigh musicians will be quartered nearby another collegiate unit. The 60 student singers of the New York University glee club will be stationed at Pocono Pines for their training camp. Alfred M. Greenfield is the director of the N. Y. U. unit.

The Lehigh band will make its first trip of the season Sept. 24 when it accompanies the varsity football squad to Ithaca, N. Y. for the Cornell-Lehigh football contest. The glee club will present a winter concert with Hunter College and has scheduled a nation-wide radio broadcast as well as a Spring tour.

Six Camp Davis Flood Victims Sought By Hundred Searchers

Man Who Lost Three Leader Of Volunteers

YESTERDAY—32 days after the flood waters wiped out Camp Davis—nearly 100 men spent the hours from dawn to sundown searching through debris below the camp site.

They were looking for the missing bodies of six children and two adults—all eight lost from Camp Davis.

Acting as coordinator of the searching party was Raymond Winfield, 51, of Jersey City, N. J., Winfield lost his wife, Edna and a son, Rowan, in the flash flood. The body of his daughter, Karen, 9, is still missing.

All of the men picking their way through debris yesterday were volunteers. They came from fire companies in Perkassie and other regional communities and from an airborne ranger group in Allentown.

Expresses Gratitude

There was evidence, in talking with Ray Winfield, that great suffering may bring out greatness in human spirit. Winfield—like most of the other fathers or husbands in the group—has no bitterness or rancor in his heart.

He looks upon the August flood as a "warning from God." A deeply religious man, Winfield spent much of his time yesterday afternoon in attempting to express his gratitude to the hundreds of persons who have helped or offered help in the past month.

"Everyone here has been helpful to us," Winfield said. "We have found sympathy everywhere we turned and many people have gone far out of their way to try to help us."

"If you would, I'd like your paper to let me express the thanks and appreciation of the fathers and husbands in our group to all those who have helped us," he said.

"I would especially like to thank the State troopers of the Commonwealth, all of them have worked with us and aided us. Specifically I'd like to express gratitude to Pfc. Edward Benesi, Alexander Kern, Emil Weber, Donald Henzey and Pete Walsh and to Sgts. Frank Burtner and Frank Cannon," Winfield said.

Tribute And Thanks

"We especially want to pay tribute and thanks to Dr. Charles Rushmore, your county coroner here and to Dr. Sidney Cohen, who have been very sympathetic. They are both men of deep understanding and kindness. They and the State police have worked night and day most of the time to try to recover the bodies of all those lost from the camp."

Winfield also expressed gratitude to "Capt. and Mrs. Charles Baker and the Salvation Army for all their help and their contributions in feeding us." He praised the East Stroudsburg borough police force with particular mention of Edward Harloe, an officer on the force, for "their patience and kindness" and "all the others in the borough who gave us help when we needed it most."

Included in the list of persons and groups to whom Winfield wished to show his group's gratitude were the auxiliary of the Acme Hose fire company in East Stroudsburg, the nurses who served at the Methodist churches, and "all the residents of Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg for all their voluntary help in searching for bodies."

A Little Rest

Last night Winfield left Monroe County to return to his home. He will leave this week for a "little rest" planned and paid for by the Norwegian shipping company where he works.

It will be the first time in a month that he has given thought to anything other than the eventual recovery of his daughter's body. And the bodies of the others who were drowned.

Those still missing from Camp Davis, besides Winfield's daughter, are: Bruce Thompson, 15, of Jersey City; Jimmy Rutherford, 6, of Staten Island; William Lieberford, 11, of Jersey City; James McCaffrey, 7, of West Caldwell, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. Chris Lawler and their daughter, Carol, 7, all of East Orange, N. J.

The search will go on. Neither Winfield or the others have lost their hope that the bodies will be found.

There is patience in Winfield's attitude and humility. A Mennonite, he believes that humility is greatness in God's eyes.

Listening to him talk, with the loss shining like a dull light in his eyes, the world somehow comes back into focus and the perspective is restored.

"You have to believe in God's will, in the fact that all things which happen are willed by God," Winfield says.

"If you believe this you will see that nothing is too great to be borne, that our life on earth is the prologue and not the end."

Members are reminded to bring rubber boots.

Any men interested in the Marine Corps, Reserve should report to the Legion Home tonight at the same time.

AFTER THE SEARCH: A LITTLE BREAK—When volunteers paused a few minutes in their search for bodies still missing from Camp Davis disaster this North Penn Goodwill Station canteen from Soudertown was on hand to dispense coffee and doughnuts and sandwiches. In photo are Bob Cassell, Nick Feuchtmayer and Nari Shoemaker, all of Soudertown; Raymond Winfield, Jersey City, leader of the search; Bill Burgoon and Jim Burgoon, who live on property across road from site of the search, helped canteen workers all day. ## Twenty-One Families Apply For New Rental Housing

TWENTY-ONE families affected by the flood thus far have made application with the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce for new rental housing.

The Chamber is attempting to find new homes for flood victims at the request of the Red Cross and local authorities.

Information gathered during the registration will be used by the State in making rehabilitation and assistance plans.

Harold A. Swenson, Chamber executive secretary, said 92 persons, including 44 children, are involved in the 21 housing problems registered with his office to date.

Most Have Children

While four parties have no children, the rest want housing for themselves and for one to five youngsters, Swenson said. One application seeks housing for eight persons.

All but two of the applicants have indicated they can pay from $35 to $55 monthly—or an average of $10 a month per room.

At present, the need is for apartments and houses with three to six rooms, Swenson disclosed. Only one of the applicants said he would consider finding new work and housing elsewhere, he said. The rest want accommodations in or near the twin boroughs.

Swenson reported that 16 of the applicants have come from distressed areas of East Stroudsburg, four from Stroudsburg, and one each from Bushkill and Ansonia. Typical of the applications are the following problems:

One couple with four children owned their own home before the disaster. It was completely demolished by the flood. They found temporary shelter with the proviso that they would move by October 1 because the owner is selling the property.

Another couple with four youngsters can't find anything within their budget of $40 to $45 monthly.

Local Man Charged In Fatal Crash

A 25-YEAR-OLD Stroudsburg man has been released in his own recognition on a formal manslaughter charge stemming from a fatal highway mishap in Washington Township, N. J., early yesterday.

New Jersey State Police said Harry Fabel, 532 Queen St., was operator of the car which crashed into an auto being driven by Alton Edgar Menger, 29, High Bridge, N. J., who was pronounced dead-on-arrival at Warren County Hospital.

Wife Injured

Fabel's 24-year-old wife, Marie, has been admitted to the hospital with possible rib fractures and lacerations. Her condition was reported as satisfactory last night.

Fabel himself was treated for multiple lacerations and abrasions and then discharged. His two-year-old son, Christopher, escaped injury.

State police quoted Fabel as saying he was proceeding north on Route 69 in Washington Township about 2:30 yesterday morning. The Menger auto was traveling south. When he was about 150 feet north of the Musconetcong River Bridge, Fabel told police, the victim's car suddenly swerved into the northbound lane of Route 69 and struck his vehicle broadside.

Since their car was lost in the flood, they've got to live close to the Stroudsburgs.

A young couple with four children, ranging from four years down to six months, lost everything in the flood. But since the husband has a steady job, they can afford to pay $50 a month for five rooms.

Register Now

"Anyone with a housing problem should register with the Chamber of Commerce," he said. "We will be asked to outline for authorities the extent of the problems here."

Persons needing such assistance may visit the Chamber office at 723 Main St. all day today. The special registration desk at the East Stroudsburg fire station will be open from 5 to 8 p.m. today, the last day to register there.

Persons who can furnish housing to flood victims should phone or visit the Chamber office, Swenson said.

Dengler Quits At Farview

WITH A DIRECT plea that his successor be a Monroe County resident, R. LeRoy Dengler, Mount Pocono, has tendered his resignation as president of the Farview State Hospital trustee board.

In a letter sent to Gov. George M. Leader on Saturday, Dengler noted that "as far back as I can remember, there has always been one member of the board from Monroe County."

He urged that Gov. Leader name as his successor on the hospital board a Monroe resident.

A group of trustees was appointed last week by Gov. Leader. None in that group were from Monroe, however.

Previous Resignation

Dengler resigned from his post on the hospital board—or offered his resignation—in December, 1954. At that time, John S. Fine, who was then governor, asked that Dengler remain on the board for a "while longer," Dengler agreed.

"I now find it advisable that I once more tender my resignation from the board to take effect when a successor to me is appointed and qualified, but I hope not later than December 1, 1955," Dengler's letter continues.

"It has been a pleasure and a source of great satisfaction to have served as trustee at Farview under four different governors—Martin, Duff, Fine and yourself," the letter said.

Fine Institution

"I naturally have a warm feeling for the institution and believe it to be one of the finest of its kind in the country," Dengler said. "I am sure with the facilities now being added, plans being made to increase the medical staff, that it will become even a greater institution."

The seven board members appointed last week by Leader are from Lackawanna (4 members), Wayne, Wyoming and Susquehanna (1 each) counties. The normal complement of trustees for the hospital is nine.

Ronson To Break Ground For New Plant At Water Gap Wednesday At 11 A.M.

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Ground will be broken here at 11 a.m. Wednesday for the new $1 million Ronson lighter production plant which is being built under a directive of Ronson Corp. board of directors despite Aug. 18-19 flood.

The tract in question is part of a 55-acre piece of property. Exact site was under only about four feet of water. Decision to proceed with the project to bring all lighter production under one building came after architect-engineers made a swift, but exhaustive survey of the site.

Ronson purchased the site some weeks before the flood and made an announcement the plant would be built to bring all lighter production under a modern, new 110,000-square foot plant.

Then came the flood with the Delaware River bounding over its normal banks to put the tract here under water.

In addition to engineering studies, and a check on the background of Hurricane Diane, the Ronson officials looked to proper flood control measures as a final bulwark to their decision to build, officials of the firm said.

Louise V. Aronson 2nd, president of Ronson said: "We feel this was a freak of nature which may not happen again for another 150 years."

The plant will contain all possible employments including a cafeteria. There will be a large parking lot and a recreation field adjacent to the plant for the employees.

After Wednesday's groundbreaking ceremonies, there will be a luncheon at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Stroud Union Favors Open RR Crossing

STROUD UNION School Board has gone on record favoring the continuation of the crossing at Gravel Place.

The board, on recommendation of its president Loring Cramer, urged that the crossing be kept open for use by school buses and necessary vehicles.

Reason for the action, board members said, is that no other adequate crossing place or highway is available at present for use by school buses or other vehicles.

Children being transported from the Ansonia section must be brought to the high school by way of Gravel Place or all the way around, through East Stroudsburg, since no road is now open in the Pinebrook section.

The crossing will also be needed to provide a place for the vehicle carrying hot food for the district's hot lunch program to cross between Ansonia and Clearview where the kitchen is located.

The school board will meet again Wednesday night to discuss estimates on cost of cleaning up and repairing flood-damaged property.

The board has hired Richard Wolbert, Stroudsburg, as a bus driver to serve the school system in the union district.

Flood Contracts

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18 — Pennsylvania has received $3,660,533 in contracts from the Defense Department as part of the flood relief program in the northeastern states flood area.

Dr. F. J. Munson will be out of town from September 14th to the 25th, inclusive.—Adv.

There is no better time to choose than now while all concerned are here to give it careful thought.

Legislature Demonstrates It Can Act Promptly If It Forgets All Bickering

Last week was one of our Legislature's "better" weeks, if you don't mind using the word loosely.

The Democratic-controlled House finally got around to acting on a whacking batch of appropriation bills, sending them over to the Senate. The $929 million package of various and sundry appropriations included all of those which the Democrats could have passed at any time all on their own and others for which there had to be some Republican support.

Over in the Republican-controlled Senate, the GOP senators who have been saying all along that they wouldn't do a thing about any tax legislation until the money-raising picture was complete suddenly decided that "Yes, we will, too." They released a package of bills to renew old taxes on business totalling $276 million after blockading them since last Feb. 1 when they passed the House. Then the Senate Republicans joined with the Democrats to pass the whole works unanimously and send them to the Governor for his signature.

We are especially fascinated by the way the appropriation bills, totalling just short of a billion dollars, cleared the House. The Republicans have been saying all along what a great job they can do on cutting down Governor Leader's big budget. The Republicans in the House still are talking about what a "common sense and realistic" slash can be made.

But it still was only talk when it came time to do something about it. "We're leaving it all up to our Republicans over in the Senate," the GOP House leadership explained weakly.

The House Democrats, for their part, rubber-stamped with a wave of their hands about every single dime the Governor asked for.

The only reductions in the Governor's original requests were made because three and a half months of the budget biennium already has expired and some spending was planned on a month-to-month schedule over the two-year period, or because of stop-gap fund allocations earlier approved.

Thus went one of the "better" weeks of a Legislature that is far from the best known.

Pennsylvanians only can hope that their Republican-controlled Senate doesn't bicker around for seven more months, as it did with the legislation to continue the business taxes, before it decides that maybe it's time to have another of its "better" weeks and act on appropriations.

Bill Increasing State Police Strength Should Be Adopted Now

Another bill has been introduced into the current session of our General Assembly calling for an increase in the number of Pennsylvania State Police troopers from 1,900 to 2,275. We hope this measure is given favorable consideration.

Earlier, a bill had been put in providing that troopers assigned to turnpike duty should not be counted against the total number of officers and men in the force.

Both of these measures reflect the obvious need for continuing increase of personnel in the State Police, for just as the number of vehicles on our highways continues to mount as Detroit factories break production record after record, so does this additional traffic require more patrol cars with personnel to man them.

Anyone with a realistic attitude must admit the presence of police on streets and highways has a telling effect in the control of speeding and reckless driving. The fewer the troopers, the greater the chances taken by a great number of stupid drivers.

Since this is so, it stands to reason that there should be increases of personnel permitted in consonance with the ability of the state to pay for these increases! We believe there could be no better investment in safety for human beings and property.

And while we are on the subject, we trust that the criminal investigative duties of the State Police will not suffer as the demands for highway patrol work increase. That happens to be the case now.

Our State Police force comprises a fine body of men dedicated to the difficult chores assigned them. Let's see to it that legislative action gives them the reserves they require.

School For GOP State Chairmen Should Have Studied Ideas, Not Improvisations

Len Hall, Republican National Committee Chairman, said at the School for Republican State Chairmen that while he is certain that President Eisenhower will be elected, other Republicans need not believe that they can ride in on his coattails, which Republicans know since their unfortunate experience in 1952 and in 1954. In the latter year, the President made a special plea, late it is true, for the country to give him a Republican Congress which it declined to do.

This school dealt with such practical and pragmatic subjects as "The Purchase of Radio and TV Time," "Techniques of Door-to-Door Fund Raising," "Service and Job Placement" and then there was something called "Effective Utilization of Advance Men" which reminds one of the advance men in the old theater of the Klaw and Erlanger regime.

But nowhere on this program do I see anything that has to do with the philosophy of the Republican Party. This oversight strikes me as significant because while a party is a mechanism for winning elections, it is also a political organ that presents a social and economic position. Mr. Roosevelt, for instance, asked the American people to support the "New Deal" which was a philosophy clearly identifiable as Fabian Socialism. Roosevelt believed—and I am sure with as much intellectual sincerity as he possessed—that the United States in 1933 was on the verge of a revolution and that he saved the country from that by a Keynesian-Tugwellian program.

The Republicans have developed a slogan, "Peace and Prosperity," which is good to the ear but which nevertheless requires some amplification. Peace is being achieved by a continuation of the doctrines of Harry Truman, George Marshall and Dean Acheson which the Republicans disavowed with vehemence and assurance from the death of Roosevelt to the election of Eisenhower. It cannot be forgotten that the Republican Platform of 1952 rejected the doctrines of Truman, Marshall and Acheson as immoral, the time had come for a change and that was the slogan.

However, it has not worked out that some of the early ideas of President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, particularly with regard to Russia, could be carried forward without raking war. The program therefore shifted from infiltration beyond the Iron Curtain to containment and the liquidation of the cold war. One concept is symbolized by NATO; the other by the Geneva Conference. This much is clear: Whereas the Republican Party, out of power, represented the conservatives of the country, in power, it took over as much as it could of the amalgam of elements which Roosevelt had brought together and which Truman had lost. Therefore, there is no longer a conservative party in the United States. Conservative Americans are expected to vote for Republican candidates but to have no voice in the management of the party or in the development of its ideas.

True, the Republican Party has avoided the type of economic and social radicalism which is represented by the ADA but it has not rejected in action those phases of New Deal policy which its platform rejected in theory.

The problem that Robert A. Taft always faced in the dark days when he kept the party together against all odds was to make certain that it was not an organ of negation; that it was not just an opposition that opposed only for the sake of opposing. He developed a constructive position which is perhaps best represented by the Taft-Hartley Act which despite the opposition to it by the trade unions, has strengthened the unions, enriched them, improved the condition of the worker while placing limitations upon the union as employer. Whereas the unions are always demanding revision of the Taft-Hartley Act, they have not used their very real power either to revise it or abolish it. They have prospered too well under it.

From Taft's standpoint, his position represented constructive conservatism and he believed that was the role of the Republican Party.

The four-day School of Republican State Chairmen might have discussed the philosophy of the Republican Party with the hope of some crystallization of ideas so that in 1956 the country might be presented with ideas instead of improvisations. However, these are practical men and they want to talk about practical things, like "Organizing the Rural Vote."

Children Seem To Like Attending School Sessions

Into each life, as the poet said, some rain must fall. And those of us who figure we've soaked up more than our quota are not about to provide umbrellas to those who still have some catching-up to do.

I suspect it is this vengeful quirk that is at the bottom of many of the difficulties that currently plague education in this country.

Nearly everywhere our schools are in a bad way for lack of things more money probably could buy—teachers, buildings, modern equipment and the like. Now, we spend relatively little on education—not as much as we spend on recreation, or for cigarettes and liquor. We could spend quite a little more on our schools without hurting ourselves noticeably.

But nowhere is it proving easy to wangle out more funds for education. Apparently it isn't so much the money; it's the principle of the thing.

A lot of grownups are more or less privately of the opinion that school children nowadays have it too good as it is.

In the first place these kids don't have to walk two, three miles or more to school every morning, the way we used to do—sometimes in bitter cold and snow up to our armpits. They have only a few blocks to go, and many of them ride even that.

And when they get to school, what do they do? Do they buckle down to drudgery and grind out those Three R's the hard way, as we used to do?

Well, most of us haven't dropped in on a school recently—in the last 30 years or so—to see for ourselves. But from what we hear around, they don't. They play games and dance and cook and watch movies and eat hot lunches and things like that.

Do they have to wade through those dull, dry textbooks that were the bane of our childhood? They do not. Their books are all doctored up so they're more exciting than the old time novels.

And the schools they go to—prettier than their own homes, some of them. Picture windows, pink and yellow walls, hardly any stairs to climb, no dark corners or dank smells, mowed grass and flowers on the schoolgrounds. Green blackboards, yet—because they're supposed not to hurt the youngsters' eyes.

We hurt our eyes on black blackboards and had to like it.

Why, these kids nowadays seem to LIKE going to school. What kinds of an attitude is that?

Maybe pink paint doesn't cost any more than brown paint, maybe a school doesn't have to be ugly to be serviceable, maybe books can be interesting and still be educational and maybe these school kids today do know more than we did at their age. But do they suffer enough?

We suffered, and we turned out all right—didn't we?

Heart Disease Causes Over Half Of Deaths

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence, his column today is by Dr. James Watt, director of the National Heart Institute, one of the U. S. Public Health Service's great research center at Bethesda, Md. Dr. Watt has had a distinguished career as scientist and public health leader, both in the U. S. and abroad. As head of the Heart Institute, he directs the federal government's partnership in the nationwide fight against this disease. Dr. Watt points up the meaning of heart disease and reports the encouraging progress of research against this No. 1 cause of death.

By Dr. James Watt, Director, National Heart Institute, Public Health Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Washington, September 16—In one of his last speeches, which happened to be about heart matters, the late Senator Robert Taft spoke of the important role of the government in "research, study, providing information and assistance." "Providing information" is indeed important. In fact, helpful information is indispensable in achieving better health through research and medicine.

This article is aimed at giving helpful information about heart disease, against which more advances have been made in recent years than in all past history.

First, what is meant by "heart disease"? Generally speaking, it includes a complex group of over 20 diseases of the heart and blood vessels. But the "big three," high blood pressure, and rheumatic fever (which leads to rheumatic heart disease).

What is the impact of heart disease on us? It causes over half of all deaths, the estimated total of heart deaths last year is 740,000 out of all the 1,470,000 deaths in the U. S.

The significance of this huge impact upon our "younger" manpower is seen in the stark fact that half of all the white males who die in their forties and fifties now die of one or another of the various kinds of heart disease, though chiefly from "heart attacks"—a result of the major serious form of hardening of the arteries known as atherosclerosis. But the picture of progress in the fight against heart disease is brightening.

Some of the greatest advances have been made against the "minor" kinds of heart disease, so-called because they account for lesser numbers of deaths. Today they are "minor" because they have been reduced by the benefits of research and its application. For example, syphilitic heart disease is now rare, yet twenty years ago it was one of the major causes.

Others could be cited; even when we turn to congenital heart defects (those present at birth), there is encouragement. Not so long ago these were considered completely hopeless.

Today, there is some knowledge of prevention. Also, new surgical operations are restoring to normal or near-normal life many children who would have been marked for invalidism or death had they been born 15 or 20 years ago.

Rheumatic heart disease is being helped by surgery on valves scarred and damaged by rheumatic fever. Even more important, today we know that rheumatic fever itself can be prevented in its first or in its recurring attacks.

The first can be done by prompt, adequate treatment by a physician of streptococcal infections, particularly "strep" sore throats; the second by regular, prophylactic treatment for those who have already had one or more bouts of rheumatic fever.

A nationwide "Stop Rheumatic Fever" campaign is under way, aided nationally by the Public Health Service and the American Heart Association, to help apply the knowledge, at hand today, which could mean the virtual elimination of rheumatic heart disease in the future.

High blood pressure and hardening of the arteries, though, are by far the biggest of the "big three." They account for over 90 per cent of the heart problem. While they can't be prevented or controlled to a great extent today, the prospects for research achievements are very bright.

In high blood pressure striking advances are bringing many benefits to sufferers. Treatment is far better than a decade ago, with perhaps the greatest progress being in the field of drugs. A number of drugs give beneficial effects in certain cases, and these treatment agents are being constantly improved as more knowledge of the body's chemistry, the action of the drugs, and other factors are learned from research.

In hardening of the arteries, the prospects also are good. We know now that the chief serious form, which causes most heart attacks and strokes, is not just an aging process, an inevitable part of growing old.

It is probably an "episodic" disease that can occur more than once and that can happen in relatively short periods of time, not necessarily over a period of many years. It is certain, in part at least, a reversible disease.

We are also beginning to understand why it attacks even much more than women up to the middle years.

This whole field has opened up greatly in recent years, and continued and strengthened research will some day give us the answers we need.

The significance of hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure to older people is well known. The bulk of heart deaths as well as the large numbers of sufferers from heart disease lie among older people. Yet among these there is much untimely death and suffering, and a goal of heart research and the related field of gerontology—the study of aging—is to find ways and means to prevent and postpone this.

There is a long way to go yet before we can extend the useful and relatively healthy years of living as much as we ought to be able to. But many scientists feel that we are firmly on the road of progress.

Home Rule Proposals To Congress

—by H. G. Heller

Congress' failure to approve a Federal highway program at the recent session has brought inquiries to the Pennsylvania Home Rule Association from congressional leaders who asked for suggestions on how a program might be set up to meet general approval.

It will be recalled that Congress defeated a multi-billion-dollar bond issue for road improvements and also voted down a "pay-as-you-go" plan with its increased automobile, truck and automotive taxes.

In answering the inquiries on how a constructive program can be developed, Thomas S. Stephenson, Home Rule Association president, said here today:

It is our opinion that a Federal Aid Program, to meet with public approval, must be a program that will improve all classes of public roads, not just those on the interstate system, because the users of all roads will be called upon to pay the Federal Aid bill.

Stephenson continued, "There also should be a change in the method of allocating Federal Aid highway funds. At present, area is used in the allocation formula and it has no relation at all to road needs."

"The most equitable method of allocating Federal Aid funds would be on a straight population-mileage formula. This would assure that all states would receive a fair share of the funds."

"The money would be earmarked for construction and reconstruction without any bureaucratic controls, matching provisions or any federal dictation as to where and how the money shall be spent."

"Certainly state and local highway officials are more familiar with their road affairs than any official in Washington."

"Of the money allocated to the states, a fair percentage of it (not less than 25 per cent) should be, in turn, allocated by the states to the Counties, Cities, Boroughs and Townships that have jurisdiction over the local road system and these allocations should be made on the same population-mileage formula."

"Such a program would guarantee the modernization of all public roads," Stephenson declared. "Therefore, the users of all roads would benefit from the expenditure of the Federal Aid funds. Hence, it would eliminate most of the objections raised against the spending of huge sums on the 40,000-mile Federal Aid system to the neglect of all other roads on the 3,000,000-mile public road system."

Alice Yost Is Bride Of James Price

The wedding of Miss Alice Yost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yost of the Lackawanna Trail, to James Price, Cresco, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 at St. John's Lutheran Church, Stroudsburg.

Rev. P. N. Wohlson performed the double-ring ceremony in the presence of many friends. Chancel baskets of gladiolas and asters, and altar bouquets of white flowers formed the background for the wedding party. Wedding music was presented in a recital before the ceremony by the church organist, Mrs. Eleanor Decker. Mrs. Frances Hartzell Meredith, soloist, sang "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length dress of imported rose lace over satin. The fitted bodice had a mandarin collar, and there were long fitted sleeves. The bouffant skirt was scalloped with a net ruffle at the hemline. A crown of rose lace embroidered with seed pearls held her veil of nylon net and she carried a Bible with white orchids.

Her sister, Miss Martha Yost, as maid-of-honor wore a mint green dress in a ballerina length. Its full net skirt was embroidered with scrolls of satin matching the satin bodice, and it was worn over ruffled net. She wore a halo hat of the same colonial bouquet of yellow fall flowers.

Harry Price served as his brother's best man, and Richard Lewis of Cresco and Roger Price of Langhorne, served as ushers. The men of the wedding party all wore white dinner jackets.

The bride's mother chose a dress of mauve, with lace insets. She wore black accessories and a corsage of white roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a apricot silk dress of aqua and grey and a corsage of white roses.

A reception for about 100 guests was held at Gap View Inn, with fall flowers decorated the tables.

Leaving for their wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Mrs. Price wore a dress of champagne silk with black accessories and a corsage of orchids. On their return they will be at home to their friends in Cresco.

The bride, a graduate of Stroudsburg High School, is employed at the Bell Telephone Co. Mr. Price is a graduate of the Barrett Consolidated school and is associated with his brother in the electrical contracting business.

That dull thudding noise you hear is made by the collective hearts of all the mothers who have sent their first-born off to college, a unison drum-beat of anxiety. Have we prepared their minds and hearts as carefully as we've prepared their wardrobes, their study lamps, their healthy young bodies and shining hair?

Whatever we've done wrong, it's too late now to tell them "Do as I say, not as I do." This isn't the first time we've been through this, you know. Remember how we worried the first time we left them with a baby sitter and rushed home to ask, "Has she been good?"

Remember the wrench of turning them over to school days, with the whole long days when

Junior Woman's Club Board Meets Tuesday

The executive board of the Junior Woman's Club will meet on Tuesday, September 20 at 8 p. m. Plans for the covered dish supper at the opening meeting will be completed and plans for the year's activities will be discussed.

Mrs. Elwood German, president, urges all members of the executive board as well as interested club members to attend the meeting.

Cherry Lane Church Activities Are Discussed
Cherry Lane — The trustees and workers of the Cherry Lane Methodist Church met at the church on Wednesday night, Sept. 14. The meeting was led by Justin Feltham, the pastor of the Anasomink Circuit. Many matters of interest were talked over, such as the pastor's salary adjustment, necessary repairs, and coming special events.

It was found that the motor of the heater had been damaged by recent flood. Horace Raish gave it his immediate attention and will attempt to dry it out, so that it may not be necessary to buy a new motor.

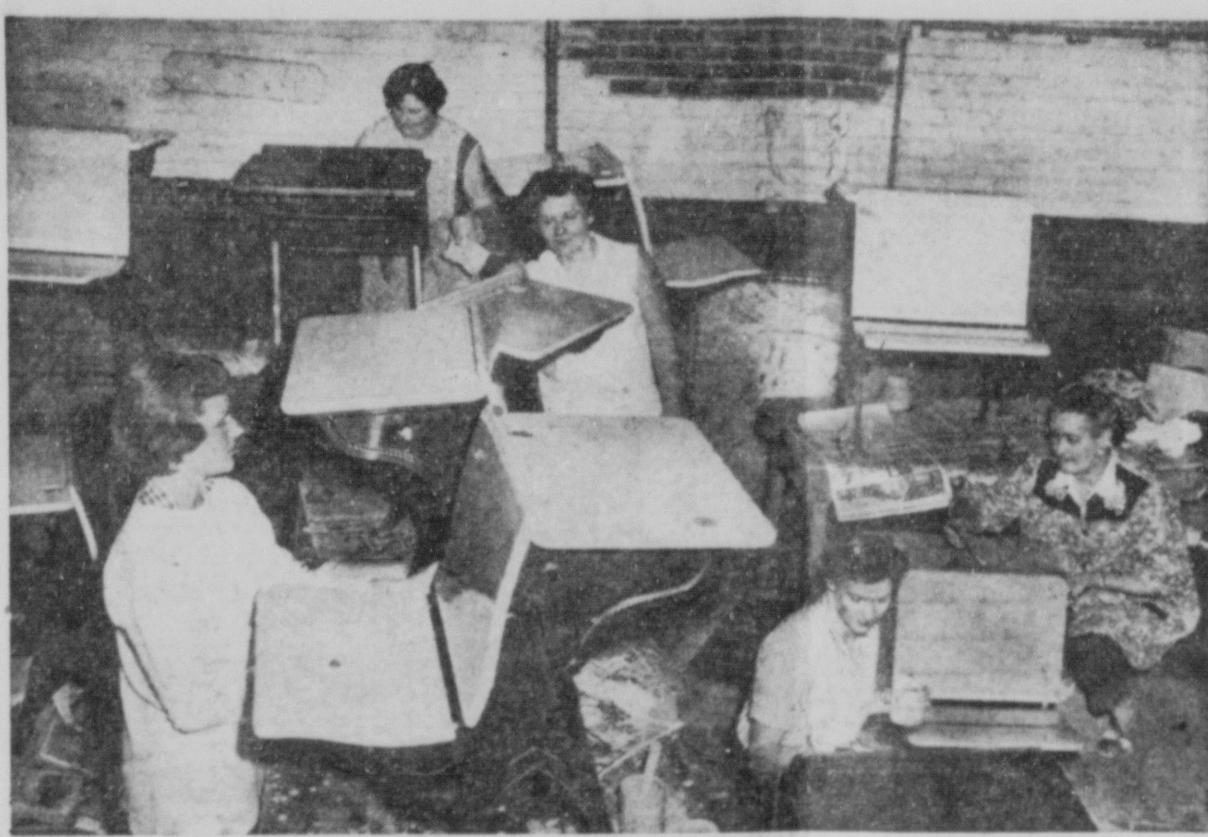

Mrs. Helen Shaffer acted as Secretary pro tem. She reported her husband, Emory Shaffer, had volunteered on his time off to work on windows which badly needed putty replacement and the purchase of necessary material was authorized.

It was also decided to hold a joint communion service for the four churches of the circuit, Anasomink, Mt. Zion, Wooddale and Cherry Lane, at the Cherry Lane Church on Sunday evening, Oct. 2, at 7:30. It is hoped there will be a good turnout of members from the four churches in order to make this an inspiring service.

The Home-Coming Service is being planned for Sunday afternoon, Oct. 16, at 2:30. Mr. Feltham will procure a speaker to be announced later, and Mrs. Jack Walters, who is now in charge of the music for the services, with the help of Mrs. Helen Shaffer, is arranging special music for the occasion.

Those who were in attendance included Mr. and Mrs. Fred Henry, Justin Feltham, Frank Sebring, Mrs. Bessie Hauser and Mrs. Helen Shaffer. Mrs. Jessie Kane, Mrs. Mildred Getz and her two sons, Glenn Kane, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Clugston. After enjoying sandwiches, cake and coffee, the meeting adjourned.

Dames Of Malta
The Dames of Malta will hold an important meeting tonight at 8 at the Malta Temple, Main St., Stroudsburg. Important business will be transacted.

PRACTICAL AND personal service rendered by the Junior Woman's Club included painting some of the furniture they have secured for the Day Care Training Center, now located at the Y. M. C. A. The Day Care center lost all of its equipment when the American Legion basement was flooded. The Center is the major welfare project of the Junior Woman's Club this year and members pitched in to help. ## Bridal Shower At Church For Miss Keiper Bushkill — A bridal shower was held in honor of Miss Marcia Keiper on Wednesday night at Ora's Dutch Kitchen. Miss Keiper became the bride of Robert Helleg on Saturday, September 17 at 12:30 p. m. at the Bushkill Dutch Reformed Church.

The decoration included a string of wedding bells in varying sizes from a miniature to a large one which swung directly over the guest of honor. White crepe paper streamers appeared to shower from above and a large decorated umbrella and bouquets of flowers placed on the table formed the background for the many gifts.

Attending were Mrs. Lawrence Dickson, Mrs. William Laubner, Mrs. Fran's Enderly, Mrs. Albert DeRenzis, Mrs. Philip Angle, Mrs. M. Warner, Mrs. B. H. Bendley, Mrs. R. B. Irwin, Mrs. Della Bixby, Mrs. William Schoonover, Mrs. John Myers, Mrs. Horton Stettler, Mrs. Marshall Keiper, Mrs. Woodrow Heller, Mrs. Floyd Fehr, Mrs. Lawrence Butz, Mrs. J. Clifton, Mrs. A. Lloyd, Miss Alberta Howey, Miss Joyce Valterscamp, Miss Margaret Valterscamp, Miss Joyce Myers, Miss Melva Keiper, Miss Cherry Lu Keiper and the hostesses Mrs. Lester Litts, Mrs. Ora Scheller, Miss Dorothy Heller, and Miss Anita Keiper.

Those sending gifts were Mrs. Norman Valterscamp, Mrs. Harold Riedmiller, Mrs. George Angle, Miss Shirley Valterscamp, Mrs. Ralph DeWitt, Mrs. I. S. Barr, Mrs. Frank Pipper, Mrs. Boyd Weiss, Mrs. Earl Fehr, Mrs. E. B. Bartram, Mrs. Wilford Moore, Miss Helen Cook, Mrs. Nelson Albrecht, Mr. Gunnigan, Mrs. Chester Brish, Mrs. C. N. ## Church Chimes Sound Through Tannersville

Tannersville — The chimes recently installed in the organ at St. Paul's Lutheran Church as the gift of an anonymous donor are proving a community asset. They were first heard in a recital played by a representative of the organ company at the dedication of the new Sunday school building on September 11.

On Thursday night they again were heard in a brief recital, sounding through the village. It is hoped that someone may be found who will present brief recitals during the early evenings during the week as a reminder of the presence of God.

Truth Class At McCoy Home
Portland — Truth Class of the Methodist Sunday School held their September meeting on Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Margaret McCoy. Mrs. Ray Hamilton was co-hostess. Mrs. Newton Reimel presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Elwood Baker read the Scripture. Mrs. Frank Culver and Miss Beatrice Williams were received as members of the class.

Those attending were Mrs. Clarence Myers, Mrs. Elwood Baker, Mrs. Frank Culver, Mrs. Abbie Sutton, Mrs. Daisy Decker, Mrs. Newton Reimel, Mrs. Emma Ross, Mrs. Laurence Randolph, Miss Beatrice Williams, Miss Edith Emery, Mrs. Fred Gardner, and hostess Mrs. Margaret and Mrs. Ray Hamilton.

FiorotMilheim Wedding In Pen Argyl

Pen Argyl — At a ceremony on Saturday morning, September 10 in St. Elizabeth Catholic Church, Pen Argyl, Miss Cynthia Milheim, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Milheim of 117 Schank Ave., Pen Argyl, became the bride of Aldo Fiorot, son of Mrs. Angela Fiorot, of Pen Argyl and the late Frank Fiorot.

Rev. Michael Melley celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the ceremony. Mrs. Benjamin Bosco, organist and Benjamin Bosco, soloist, provided the music. The altar was decorated with white flowers.

Mr. Milheim gas his daughter in marriage. Her bridal gown was of imported Chantilly lace and nylon tulle, fashioned with a scoop neckline, long pointed sleeves and a snug-fitting bodice. The sleeves and bodice were highlighted with sequins and pearls. Her bouffant skirt of nylon tulle over net had a chapel train. A cloche of pearls and sequins held her fingertip veil of silk illusion and she carried a bouquet of baby white orchids and pompons.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Pezzuto as maid of honor and Mrs. Donald Weiss and Miss Jean Oliver as bridesmaids. They were dressed in floor-length gowns of turquoise and pink nylon chiffon over taffeta with tight fitting shirred bodices trimmed in seed pearls. The floating panels of the same material formed stoles. They wore picture hats of horsehair in matching colors.

The Misses Jane Stofflet and Linda Lobb, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. They wore floor-length dresses of pink and white nylon net over taffeta and carried bouquets of pompons.

Peter Fiorot was his brother's best man and Douglas Milheim, brother of the bride, and John Nasatka were ushers.

Mrs. Fiorot was graduated from Pen Argyl High School and attended West Chester State Teachers College. She is employed as secretary by the Lafayette Trust Co., Easton. Her husband attended Pen Argyl High School, served two years in the armed forces in Germany and is a mason of Duggan and Marcon, Contractors, Allentown.

Miss Bowman Bride Of Police Officer

Swiftwater — Yellow and gold chrysanthemums formed the background for the wedding of Miss Nancy M. Bowman of Elmsford, N. Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Bowman of Swiftwater, to Donald H. Carlton of White Plains, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carlton of Aberdeen, Md.

The wedding was performed by Rev. Edgar Hersh at the Swiftwater Methodist Church on Saturday afternoon at 3 p. m. Altar vases were filled with fall chrysanthemums. The church pews were marked by satin ribbons and sprays of pompons. Mrs. O. Richard Howell, organist, played a medley of wedding music. Miss Dawn Peeschka, soloist, sang "At Dawning", "With This Ring" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her brother, John H. Bowman, the bride wore a floor length gown of taffeta falls, princess style, with a chapel train. The long sleeves were pointed over the hands. She wore a Juliet cap of Chantilly lace trimmed with seed pearls, holding her fingertip veil of nylon tulle. She carried white roses in an arm spray.

Miss May B. Bowman, of Elmsford, N. Y., formerly of Swiftwater, was maid of honor. She wore a crystallette gown of Dior blue with shoulder piece and a hatching garden hat. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses.

Walter Carlton, of Aberdeen, Md., father of the bridegroom served as his best man.

The bride's mother wore a soft slate blue dress of flannel with a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother wore peacock blue taffeta and a corsage of pink roses.

The Swiftwater Inn, Swiftwater, was the scene of the wedding reception. The buffet table had been decorated with gladioli in pastel shades, white candles and ferns.

For traveling the bride wore a brown suit with matching accessories. They will make their home in White Plains, N. Y. The bride is a professional nurse on the staff of Grasslands Hospital, Valhalla, N. Y. Mr. Carlton is police officer of the city of White Plains, N. Y.

Wedding Reception In West End

Bangor — A reception at the West End Firehall, Brodheads-ville, followed the wedding of Miss Margaret Zanette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Zanette of 477 Broad St., Pen Argyl, to Quintus Manoway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manoway of Pen Argyl RDI.

The ceremony was performed September 10 at 11 a. m. in St. Elizabeth Catholic Church by Rev. Michael J. Melley.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor-length gown of imported Chantilly lace and nylon net over satin. It was fashioned with a small lace collar, long sleeves and a fitted bodice. Her full skirt of nylon net had a band of lace at the bottom, and her veil of French illusion was draped from a crown of lace, pearls and sequins. She carried a Bible with a white orchid.

Miss Jennie Ardinger of Pen Argyl was maid of honor. She wore a gown of nylon lace over taffeta in turquoise with a matching tiara. She carried a colonial bouquet of white, pink and aqua pompons.

Anthony Barazzoli of Pen Argyl was best man, and Foster Manoway, brother of the bridegroom, and Angelo Roberti were ushers.

Mrs. Robert Lundegan was organist and Miss Penny Peilly was soloist.

After a wedding trip to Canada they will make their home at 317½ Main St., Pen Argyl. They are both graduates of Pen Argyl High School. The bride is employed at Blue Valley Sportswear and the bridegroom at Parsons Bros. Slate Co.

WSCS To Meet

Bartonsville — The Women's Society of Christian Service of Wesley Chapel will meet for the first time this season on Thursday night, September 22, at the Wesley Chapel social hall, at 8. All members are urged to attend and new members would be welcomed.

We agree—so keep your eyes open, and shop Wyckoff's with the confidence that you're buying established brands and top quality at a price you can afford . . . Anna Magnani, Italy's best loved actress, has just completed "The Rose Tattoo" in Hollywood, but her impression of America is summed up in three words "too much alike."

Fiery of personality, Anna wears her jet hair long, tumbled and wild. She dislikes beauty salons, girdles and brassieres, and when she acts she pulls out all the stops and gives her emotions free rein. Being Magnani she can get away with it—but if all of us were suddenly to stop visiting the beauty salon, or shopping the girly departments, her three word impression of America might be "much too sloppy"—and most of us would agree . . . If you like to spot new things before your friends see them, and if you enjoy being "in the know" about the very latest merchandise, keep your eye on Wyckoff's. One thing is true, our receiving room is so busy right now that John Neipert has postponed his vacation three times. It's a good healthy, exciting sign. I'd say—and a wonderful enticement for the "just looking, thank you" contingent of shoppers . . . Incidentally, we welcome "just lookers" at Wyckoff's because we know that our stock is so attractive, well chosen and fairly priced, the customer will, sooner or later, return to buy . . . The new umbrellas are prettier than parasols, and sleekly cased in pastel plastics. Quite a change from the unimaginative black cottons of yesterday that made a dreary day seem more so!

Engineers, Installs, All Jobs

WHETHER your plumbing problem is the replacement of a sink, washer or a complete home or commercial heating installation, the D. Katz & Son Plumbing & Heating division is staffed to handle the work.

Division manager Robert H. Collins pointed out all work is being done by the firm's own master plumbers in accordance with the plumbing code.

24 Hour Service
The Dreher Avenue firm also offers its customers 24-hour service.

In addition to coal burner service and complete cleaning and reconditioning of heating equipment, the Katz firm now also handles pump service and reconditioning work.

He stressed that all men are covered by property and liability insurance to assure the customer of complete protection.

Engineer-Install
The Katz firm can completely engineer and install plumbing and heating equipment for new homes... either hot water, steam or forced hot air systems, the latter with or without summer air conditioning.

Katz installation men can also quickly install exhaust systems for the home, taproom, restaurants, etc. Exhaust systems provide the benefits of air conditioning without the exorbitant cost.

Special discounts on all types of plumbing and heating work are available for hotels, boarding houses, tourist homes and resorts.

For speedy estimates and help on any heating or plumbing problem, call Robert Collins, Stroudsburg 2369.

THIS CURLING ARRAY of pipe is a modern adaptation of a very old heating principle which was in existence during the Golden Age of Greece and Rome. What you see here is the first stage of a radiant heating installation. Robert H. Collins, manager of the D. Katz & Sons plumbing & heating division, is examining one of the pre-formed sections. The Katz firm handles all types of domestic and commercial heating.

New Paints For Masonry At Fethermans

A NEW PAINT made expressly for stucco and masonry walls and asbestos shingle-siding is being featured now at Fred Fetherman's Paint store at 1016 W. Main Street in Stroudsburg.

SPRED GLIDE-ON is a revolutionary new finish for exterior masonry surfaces — available in beautiful pastels and deeper shades, plus attractive let-downs that can be easily made by intermixing SPRED GLIDE-ON colors with Tinting White.

Same Properties
SPRED GLIDE-ON gives you the same properties you have enjoyed with SPRED SATIN inside your home. Goes on twice as fast as ordinary masonry finishes. Can be brushed, rolled or sprayed. Dries in minutes, completely dust free, to a beautiful, durable, suede-like finish. Keeps out moisture, yet the surface "breathes" to let vapor escape from inside, preventing blistering. Completely resistant to the alkalinity usually found in asbestos shingles and masonry.

The tough vinyl latex film of SPRED GLIDE-ON resists driving rains, hottest sunshine, mildew, snow and ice, sea air and salt-water spray, strongest smog, dust and chemical fumes. Colors will not fade — they say bright, new-looking after ordinary finishes grow weak and dull. Resists cracking, peeling, blistering, acid and alkali action.

Stucco homes can be painted with SPRED GLIDE-ON easily and quickly with an exterior roller. Spray application is also recommended. All wood trim should be painted with a brush, using Glidden ENDURANCE HOUSE PAINT. You will use the garden hose to remove dirt, soot, mud stains and rainwater streaks from the surface of SPRED GLIDE-ON. The paint will become fresh-looking and save you the cost of repainting.

Sebring Offers Double Duty Choremaster

G. W. Sebring & Son, N. 5th St., announced recently they now have the all-new double duty CHOREMASTER Tiller Mower.

Here's the yard and garden "helping hand" you've been waiting for. The new CHOREMASTER Tiller Mower is ready to save you hours of effort on ground working and mowing. It does every garden job—preparing the seed bed, furrowing for planting, cultivating at any stage of growth—even chops up and turns under dead plants. It mows the finest lawn... wades through toughest weeds... mulches leaves in the fall.

The CHOREMASTER Tiller Mower is complete, ready to operate, at low cost... less than you might expect to pay.

THE OPENING OF Pocono Bridge to traffic Saturday once again linked Fetherman's Paint Store and other W. Main St. businesses with the rest of the community. Fetherman's was just a few scant feet from disaster during the flood. The store is located right next to the Pocono Bridge on the west side.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for good bedding at a good economical price, East Stroudsburg Bedding Co., 437 Main St., is the place to go. The type shown here is the new wrought iron trundle style.

TRADERS — one of the first flood victims to re-open. The Flour & Feed Co., located on flood ravaged Washington St., was quickly repaired and normal business resumed Saturday.

Latex Paint Recommended For Cleanup

POCONO PAINT-UP Center, 722 Main St., has many useful products which are being used now in the area's big clean-up and fix-up operation.

One of these products is Glem Colorich Latex paint, a ready-to-use paint which dries in 30 minutes and can be used on all interior walls and woodwork.

Easy To Use
No elaborate preparation is needed when you use Glem Colorich, according to Pocono Paint-Up manager Martin Vogt, "and all of Colorich's luxury colors are thoroughly washable."

Colorich is a new rubber paint which covers wallpaper, wallboard, plaster, wood, metal and previously painted surfaces. It leaves no "painty" odors, and since it is quick drying, you can use newly painted rooms the same day.

Many Features
Thoroughly washable... rubber tough... satin smooth... Colorich resists dirt and abuse like a fine enamel. Not only washable... but scrubbable. Beautifully soft and rich in appearance, with a skin-tight film that actually repels soil particles.

Dries in 30 minutes... Colorich comes ready to use... nothing to add. Works so easily that the paint job is finished before you realize you have started... and the surface is dry to touch in thirty short minutes.

Easy to touch up—Colorich literally slides onto your wall. If you miss a spot simply touch it up and you have an absolute uniform appearance.

Easy to use—You will like the way this amazing paint works. No brush pull. Flows on like magic with either brush or roller coater application.

It's ready to use... or easy to intermix for dramatic color effects of your own choice.

HOUSE PAINT
CUSTOM-MIXED

Blatt Says Sales Tax May Be Forced

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18 (AP)—The Democratic administration of Gov. Lender may be forced to accept a state sales tax to finance state expenditures, internal affairs secretary Genevieve Blatt says.

Miss Blatt, speaking yesterday at a Democratic women's rally, said:

"And remember this, it can't be the same sales tax that went out Sept. 1. That tax was one per cent with many exemptions. If we are ever driven to a sales tax it will probably be one of three per cent without exemptions."

Miss Blatt blamed "those stubborn" 26 Republican senators for killing the governor's proposed classified income tax. She said the administration intends to fight for amendment of the state constitution to provide for a graduated income tax.

Game Lands Sale To Be Opposed

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania's organized sportsmen will strongly oppose any further sale of Pennsylvania's game lands to private interests.

The Pennsylvania federation of sportsmen's clubs adopted a resolution at the closing session of their annual two-day fall meeting yesterday condemning sale of 50,000 acres of state land to the Curtiss-Wright Corp.

Forced Out Camps
The Curtiss-Wright transaction forced many hunting organizations to relocate their camps.

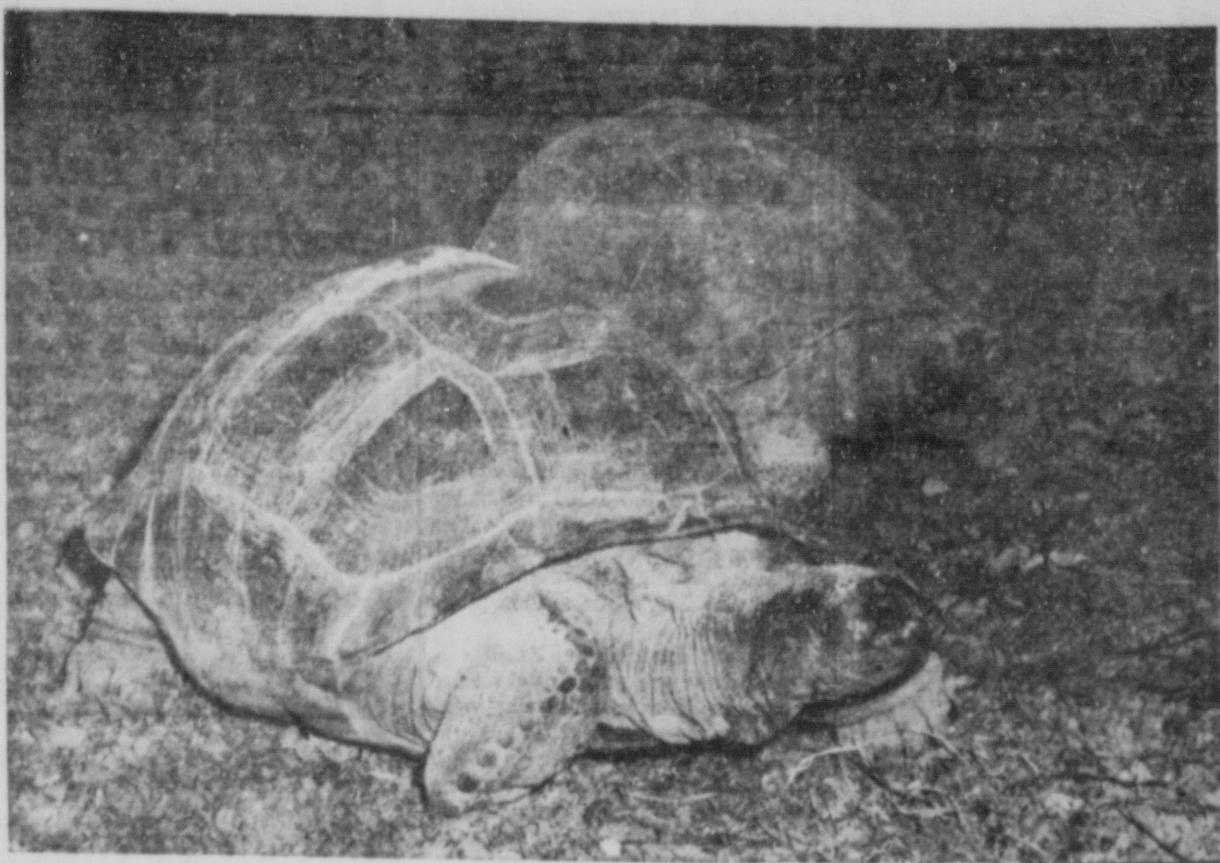

In other action the re-elected Raymond H. Armstrong, of Guys Mills, Crawford County, president of the federation.

Other officers re-elected were: Steve Emmanuel, Wilkes-Barre, first vice president; Charles H. Nehf, Allentown, secretary; and Glenn C. Dobbs, Smith Ferry, treasurer.

Kintner Rites Are Conducted

FUNERAL SERVICES for Mrs. Jane Mosier Kintner, late of Mink Hills, were held Saturday at 2 p.m. at Lanterman funeral home.

Rev. Frank Wingerter officiated. Interment was made in Shawnee Cemetery. Pallbearers were Charles McDonald, James Smith, Louis Carmella, and George A. Freeman Jr.

Democrats Claim Lead In Registration

HARRISBURG, Sept. 18 (AP)—Democratic registrations for the Nov. 8 election are well ahead of rival Republican registrations, a top Democratic party policy maker contended today.

"Our party was never stronger and that goes for last year when we elected the first Democratic governor in 20 years," said Sen. Joseph M. Barr, Democratic state chairman.

Demos 2-1
Barr said that in Pittsburgh the registrations have been running 2-1 in favor of the Democrats, while the ratio has been 2-1 in Philadelphia and traditional Republican stronghold Dauphin County.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, and to relieve pain—without surgery. In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.® At your druggist. Money back guarantee.

John Richter Bridge Worker Dies Here

JOHN O. RICHTER, 43 of Elizabethtown, died at 1 p.m. Saturday in Monroe County General Hospital.

Richter was employed as a construction worker by the firm working to put up a temporary bridge at the Stite's Bridge site. Stite's was completely demolished by the Aug. 18 flood. It lies at the juncture of the east and west branches of the Broadhead's.

On Monday, Sept. 12, Richter plunged from the construction site to the creek bed and rocks below. He was taken to the hospital for treatment of multiple injuries, some of them internal.

The body was taken to Elizabethtown by Lanterman funeral home, East Stroudsburg, for burial on Wednesday in Maple Grove cemetery here.

Surviving are his wife, Ethel; two sons, Jack and Daniel and a daughter, Gretchen, all at home; a brother, Carl, Newville, Pa.; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Esterline and Mrs. Horace Schwartz, both of Elizabethtown and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Morris Richter, Elizabethtown.

Dr. E. O. Hendrick, Mt. Pocono will be out of town Sept. 10th to 25th inclusive. Adv.

THE INDIFFERENT SHRUG

couldn't care less

The SHRUG is a retailer who shows little concern if manufacturers advertise in newspapers or not.

Oh, sure, he believes in newspaper advertising for retailers like himself—but he doesn't realize that he should urge manufacturers to advertise there, too.

Fortunately, the SHRUG is a rare creature.

Most retailers put most of their advertising in their local newspapers—and ask for and welcome manufacturers' ads in the same medium.

Happily, manufacturers are using newspapers more and more. What clearer evidence than in the record amount of lineage they placed in newspapers the first six months of 1955? Both retailers and manufacturers used more newspaper advertising in the first six months of 1955 than in any similar period in history.

Nowhere else can a manufacturer and a retailer advertise together so effectively as in the newspaper.

All business is local...and so are all newspapers!

Approve Farm Practices For Flood Areas

RALPH L. CULVER, chairman, Pennsylvania State ASC Committee, announced today that two special agricultural conservation practices have been approved by the State ASC Committee to assist flood ravaged farmers in their rehabilitation efforts.

County ASC Committees will provide financial assistance in carrying out the special conservation practice in eleven counties declared an emergency area in eastern Pennsylvania.

Monroe Included

The counties designated in the emergency area are: Bucks, Carbon, Lackawanna, Lehigh, Luzerne, Monroe, Montgomery, Pike, Northampton, Schuylkill and Wayne.

County committees in the flood stricken area are authorized to share with the farmers 75 percent of the estimated cost but to exceed 75 percent of the actual cost of removing debris from farmland and for repairing or replacing conservation measures or structures.

Under the practice for removing debris from farmland federal cost-sharing will be allowed for removing brush, logs, trees, boulders, sand, gravel, infertile overwash and other farm material from farmland. Clearing under this practice is designed to permit normal farming operations when the practice is completed.

Replacements

The practice for repairing or replacing conservation measures or structures such as farm ponds, sod waterways, terraces, diversion terraces, outlets, developed springs and seeps, open drains, and underground drainage systems, is designed to permit repairing or replacing conservation measures or structures that had been previously completed and which were not damaged or destroyed by lack of normal maintenance.

The practices as approved by the Pennsylvania State ASC Committee were developed in cooperation with the Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Forestry Service, Extension Service, Farmers Home Administration, representatives of the County ASC Committees and other interested agricultural agencies.

According to Chairman Culver, most of the farmers who have need for performance of these practices have suffered heavily in damage to buildings, roads, livestock, and farm crops. Their first concern, of course, is to solve these problems rather than soil and water conservation problems and because of pressing financial obligations would otherwise not have funds to perform these practices.

These practices have been approved for use under the 1955 and 1956 Agricultural Conservation Programs. Application for federal cost-sharing can be made by flood devastated farmers at their county ASC office.

Runaway Auto Hits Parked Car

A RUN-AWAY auto sped down Main St. hill in Delaware Water Gap yesterday afternoon, causing property damage and frightening an elderly pedestrian who momentarily was in its path.

Police Chief Fred Decker said a 1955 sedan, owned by Neubert Clausen, Delaware Water Gap, was parked outside the home of Anton Rodzig when it suddenly went rolling down the hill.

Mrs. Lillian Hermance was going up Main St. when screams alerted her to the oncoming car. Jumping sideways, the woman crouched low near the curb, reportedly expecting to be hit.

However, the run-away veered sharply away and shot across the road and up on to a sidewalk in front of Wiberg's Grocery Store. It then struck a cement block wall in front of a home before coming to a halt.

Chief Decker said the car struck a parked auto, owned by Richard Widdoss, Delaware Water Gap, be-

Pennsylvania Restaurant Association To Meet At Pocono Manor October 1-5

THE PENNSYLVANIA Restaurant Association will hold its 18th annual meeting on October 1-5, at the Pocono Manor Inn. The board of directors of the National Restaurant Association, which maintains offices in Chicago, will hold a meeting of its board of directors on the same dates at "The Manor."

Approximately four hundred will attend this meeting from Pennsylvania and about one hundred will be present from most of the forty eight states.

Welcome Dinner

Highlights of the meeting will be opening Saturday afternoon, October 1, followed by a "dinner of welcome" for the National Restaurant Association people.

Sunday night there will be a Pennsylvania Dutch Dinner featuring a real Pennsylvania Dutch menu with the seven sweets and seven sours which will be followed by Pennsylvania Dutch entertainment.

Tuesday night there will be a banquet in honor of Percy A. Brown of Wilkes-Barre who this year is celebrating his fiftieth anniversary in business. Marion Isbel, president of the National Restaurant Association will be the toastmaster. Entertainment and dancing will follow this affair.

Livengood Speaker

At a luncheon on Wednesday the newly elected officers of the Pennsylvania Restaurant Association will be honored. William S. Livengood, former Secretary of the Pennsylvania Department of Internal Affairs will be the speaker.

There will be many other forms of entertainment during this five day meeting.

Frank F. Davenport, Jr., Harrisburg, is chairman of the program committee.

Officers of the Pennsylvania Restaurant Association are H. R. Schweinberg, president, Somerset; Lynmar Brock, vice president, Philadelphia; Jess M. Kemberling, secretary-treasurer, Selinsgrove and Mrs. Janet Daniels, executive secretary, Harrisburg.

Death Highway, Not Dream Road

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 18 (AP)—Dr. W. D. McClelland, Allegheny County coroner, said today the Pennsylvania highway is becoming a "death highway" instead of the dream highway it was intended to be.

McClelland said there have been 12 fatalities on the parkway in the first 8½ months of this year compared to only seven fatalities in all of 1954.

The parkway, only partially completed, is intended to keep through traffic out of the congested areas of Pittsburgh. McClelland's statement was released by the Western Pennsylvania Safety Council of which he is vice president.

Weather Hurt Farm Finances

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18 (AP)—Financial returns to farmers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware at the end of this year's growing season could be better than extremes of weather and unstable local markets would indicate, the Third Federal Reserve District reports.

The note of optimism was sounded in a report of an erratic season, including a July drought and August floods. In some cases, crop losses from the drought were severe, and hurricanes Connie and Diane took their toll in wind and water damage.

Weather Extremes

"The growing season to Sept. 1 has been marked by weather extremes seldom equaled in the past," the district said. "And in local markets, demand and prices for many products have been anything but stable."

The report cautioned that diversified farming is the farmer's best insurance against bad weather and unstable markets. It said final returns likely will be better than expected for all except the few farmers who "put all their eggs in one basket."

Through mid-year, the report said, cash income from marketings in each state ran close to that of 1954. It said crop receipts showed moderate gains and that receipts from livestock and livestock products trailed somewhat.
